Mrs. Wilson

Dear Mrs. Dawson

We were all so pleased to get Mamma safely back again, she will write to you on Monday being; but she now begs me to let you know of her comfortable journey & safe arrival.

This morning she found on the train a Toronto friend Judge Morrison, who was a most pleasant companion & made the time pass more quickly, the train was most unusually punctual & Papa was waiting for her.

Warmly unite Believe me Yours very affectionately

We have been hearing a great deal about you all, I almost fancy I have been spending the day with you. Mammon has enjoyed her trip so very much, as I was quite sure she would & how he shall enjoy it over again with her, as she tells us all about it.

Thank you so very much for the pleasant looking book you sent me, it is one which will I think interest me very much. Jessie begs me to give you her best thanks for the large package of chocolate you sent to her, she had been recommended to take something of the kind & anything which will be good for baby, is a source of joy to her.

I have also to thank you for beautiful Montreal Caudies, which I have been enjoying myself & sharing with my friends today, for I never feel quite happy until I have finished my boubons in my possession.

We are looking forward with great delight to hearing Mr.
Valey, I enjoyed Anna's notes so much, I gave them to Mr.
Reid & Miss Howard now has them & is to give them to Carrie Proffatt, so that he may be prepared for him when he comes.

Now I wish Mr. Peasall Smith had been able to visit us also, he is one I have longed so much to meet; but I must not forget that all blessings comes from God Himself & He can use any instrument. Mamma says to tell you how much surprised & pleased she was to find your pretty & useful present, on opening her trunk, you are too kind dear Mrs. Dawson, thank you very much for all your long remembrance to each of us & above all for the kindness which made dearest Mother's wish to you so happy.

Mamma sees a great change in dear little baby, who has been growing a big as he comes for grandmamma. They are all glad to find she appreciates the change. Already I feel a load of care lifted off my shoulders & as it does not disturb Mamma we are all happy.
Papa sends his kindest regards to you & Mr. Dawson, he cherishes a most pleasant remembrance of his visit to you. With love to yourself & Anna in which Mamma & I am also (for she feels as if she knew you
