

A box of wedding cakes has just arrived. I shall bring it for the
B. & P. print.

Dearest Love,

Thank you for your postcard & letter which reached me yesterday & to-day respectively. This is the first moment I have had to write since you left and now I have only a moment as my afternoon class begins immediately.

The little ones have all been very well since you left and Lily seems to be doing her best to make them happy & comfortable.

that the watch had turned up. It was taken from the bathing-house by one Michel Raymond who lives with the blacksmith below Arles. Macquiden gave him a dollar & I should like to give him an introduction to my foot.
M<sup>de</sup> Castonguay seems to have frightened him into buying the watch and so she claims a reward also. The record says that he took the watch for "safe-keeping" & it is a pity that he could not have safe-keeping in jail for a year or two.

With love untold for yourself dearest, and kindest remembrance to your amiable hosts Ever your fond B.

Your clock is supposed to have left for London yesterday. <sup>May Providence guide</sup> it safely to you

Miss Clare presides over the teapot, "orders" the meals &c with much grace & dignity. She informed me yesterday that she thought ~~the~~ a lady who wore a bunnet ought to drink tea instead of milk.

You will be sorry to learn that poor old
Dr Luch died yesterday.
I saw the college flag at half-mast and could not at first imagine why it was there.

The college games were announced for to-morrow, but have now been put off for a week, so that members of the society may attend Dr Leach's funeral (at 3 p.m. tomorrow).

Last night I dined with the Puckhows; to-night I go to the college and I have promised to dine with the Boys on Saturday; so you see I become quite a dissipated character the moment your back is turned. That big teachers meeting comes off at the museum this evening and I suppose I shall have to put in an appearance there.

I had a letter from Macrides to-day informing me
