March 21. 95-

My dear Anna,

William tells me that you & Bernard may be able to get away soon for your long contemplated trip, the children being pretty nearly all right again. I trust that this may be so & that you will have a very restful time of it. The weather to the south should be fine & spring like now - anywhere at least to the south of Washington

& you should be able to return with a lot of new experiences, not only interesting in themselves, but useful as Educational precepts to the various children, all of whom may afterwards share more or less in what you may see or meet with. If you really manage to get off, drop a line now & then that we know where you are & what doing.
 I am kept busy with all sorts of things not always of the most interesting kind. Tonight there is a great dinner at the Russell of graduates of kinds at which I promised to be present & was put down to respond to one of the toasts. But I did not feel at all up to it, being some sort of a cold, & so decided in the end to plead off & did so.

This accounts for my being quietly here instead.

Yours
George.
