to stay one month longer, as the talk is that R. will return to England in ship with her. G. G. remain to close up their house.
 This they leave half with me till they it ~~leave~~ ^{leave} same ^{where} I say to have with
 G. G. to follow R. later.
 Plans have fallen through so often that it seems vain to record them.
 G. G.'s comedy is the one, but I still have priced them it like the same.

as this will be fully supplied by your numerous family curers-products. Chiefly I want to thank you for various welcome enclosures showing you think personally of me, & meaning that, probably, you are now with Mrs. Dybil, to ask you to give her my warmest love. How dearly I love ^{them} her here now while it is so peaceful, & reading & talking with her such an intense pleasure.

but many things must be done by proxy & I delight my day with the thought that you are enjoying together such communion as will afterwards be a well of satisfaction that can be drawn upon for many days hence.
 It is so nice too to be able to picture you & your pleasure in seeing, this & that, of the many beautiful objects of my lovely native Edinburgh. I have, in addition to names already given of the few friends of my parent still living there, thought of Miss Creas who lives in George Square — (North side) quite near Mrs. Scott-Shaming who, by the way, the Campbells never suggested that you should call upon. They intended to go direct to Lornie. The Petersons sailed on Sat: 7th & to call Principal Hackett whose wife & family are here, in the Harry Hague's Cottage, they having the use of old Mr. H.'s house, as the new bridegroom takes his bride to England for the summer. After all I have some news viz: that Mrs Joseph Mulholland, the above bride's niece, is about to be married to Rev Mr Norton. I received his P.P.C.' today. All goes well at J^r Cottage.

 I am watching Clara & have not yet seen the least sign of her being over-tired, & I need hardly add she shows great wisdom & kindness to Courset & the younger children. C. is taking all his gymnastic strength splendidly in gardening &c. This responsibility is developing excellent points in his character.

Before I left Montreal I gave Bernard a cheque for $100. wh he promised to change.

for a draft that wd. be honored in England. Out of this will you please pay full balance of what I owe to Eva & for the Curtains I spoke of - 30 lbs is required for them. I wd. prefer that in an length as they are for such Curtains. I shall be glad that you find something new, thin & pretty for these. Never mind flannels they can be got here. Besides will you take the trouble of getting a nice Xmas present for Clara & Ruth Cutting, say for $20 to $25 for each. The residue please accept to be spent as you see best. I ought to pay E. Dr. Laflour's bill of $5. as the man to him to satisfy me.

You will expect to hear something of P. I wish I cd. say something encouraging, but he makes & falls back into the depths as habitually.
 I beggs him to come here with me & though he he wd. but he has promised to bring baby down this week. Walker has consented to
