

83 Scipion Kent

2: December 1807.

Dear Mrs. Harrington -
I am sending a note to Clara, and it seems a shame
to be troubling you
with notes, which can come to little. But I can not keep putting a paper by most
dear & sympathizing with you in the passing of Dr. Harington — any person can know what the loss of the Companion of their

graves means to you.
But you will I
know, lose right
of your own loss
in his place — and the children will do for you all
that children can.
When I think of
those dear girls —
your children and
Dr. Harington's — I

feel that their comforting must mean
much. And I wish I could tell you,
dear Mrs. Harrington,
how much you constant hopeful
courage has done
for some of us; but if I did, I would have to say much more than you would care to read. But believe me, in the confident hope that the source of your strength does not fail you, and with
most deep sympathy,
affectionately yours
Grace Fairley.
