Mrs. J.B. Harrington,

C i t y.

December 3rd 07.

I desire on behalf of our people to extend to yourself and family our deepest sympathy with you in the loss you have just sustained in the death of your beloved husband.

For years we have considered him a practical friend of our work, and one who sympathized with us in the cause which we have found so difficult to prosecute successfully.

I have no doubt you will be at a great loss to understand why this dark cloud of sorrow has come across your sky just at the present time, but that may not be possible to ascertain, in fact it may be better for us at these times to learn the lesson of trust rather than to presume to ask the reason for God's dealings with us and ours. You have, however, this consolation that the influence of a devoted life will remain with you, and I think the bereavement will make the eternal world more real to us while we are taught this lesson, that we have no abiding city here.

I pray that divine consolation may be yours, and that strength may be given you at this time to say "Thy will be done". May God grant that this grace shall be given you and your family.

I beg to remain,

Yours in Christ,

D. C. Moore
STAFF CAPTAIN.
