

Melie
July 4/93

Dearest Bernard,

It was stupid of me not to telegraph to you as to our arrival but I did not realize how very long it would before you heard, & when I got up Friday I found Eric unable to move his leg & so low in his mind & the baby to settle in & so on, I had quite near to see to them I do well merritake - Tomorrow Eric has slept - well last night, & today he can move the leg a little more freely - & no other part is affected, so I hope & trust he will go on well - The weather is really hot, & far drier than in town.

I think I will try to get him out on the gallery tomorrow to sit in the sun if he feels able - of course I have begun no reaction yet - just trying to get small matters settled. & soon I hope we shall be in order.
Yours I trust - are getting on fairly well & will soon be able to join us. I fear your plants are not - having much care, I have not been able to look at them yet, as we go to the shore. The whole country cries out for rain. but I cannot help withing for one inas from they for Eve - I must by I write again where I have a few secret-but they have not come yet - Paper books better already -

Love's
yours
Anna
