Anna returns for trip on account of Will being

Dearest - I climbed up to my lofty berth & found it most comfortable. I charged the porter to make me up, which he did when we had reached Albany.
Fortunately I had not disrobed much, for I have to dress in almost-darkness, I apparently being the only passenger to leave the train.
I wandered down to the big station waiting room found the D.V.N. Capt. at 79. I then beheld me on a high stool having some breakfast in company with various porters workmen & stray travellers I had coffee & chicken sandwich of great size - & purchased two rather good looking cakes in case of need I tried to buy a N.C. as paper to send you back a line but no such things could be got at news or inquiry or baggage place I got the train easily & it was quite comfortable I went over the old route Taratago - through the Adson dock & Mattburgh & we arrived on time - Couras was waiting & reported will much better - D. B. was evidently quite abandoned about him yesterday & is surprised that he is so improved today - The Incidentally, my reflections have gone over the knowledge of violence. I feel a thing to be reckoned with. As Dr B - says, "Incidentally, my reflections concerning I'd not count on it. As I can't say twice today, & W. has had several on his mind yesterday & they are to be concluded tonight - & I also believe in good hot- applications =

I think you may make a very

I visited & have a good story to tell - leaving them to see to day & then but will receive up & no one has too much

I am very pleased - that we will be in their been broken good & along most on it will be better - I shall keep you with informed about the dancing & think I did the right - being to see I suppose now that you have on to New Haven yesterday as well & I could see why you are not to Boston - it is better enough of you to try & suck up all you can, for all our sakes & B.S. seems inclined to be companionable. I I dare say will be less adverse than Con - In any case it is a very valuable opportunity to get to know the Cadi's ideas a little better & the change certainly is doing him good -

I will take things out as easily as I can - & Kutta shall run the house for a while -

Everything is thriving here & the snow nearly gone will is now enjoying being an invalid - & keeps track of politics, fruit & drinks with much exactness Much love dearest &

I am very thankful that the immediate alarm has passed by - & I dare say the complete rest & quiet-will quench the bronchitis all the better, in the long run though I fear it will leave her sensitive -

Love & best-wishes for the New Year - We have many blessings to give thanks for in the our just - past -
