New York, Oct. 24th 1884.Prof. Harrington,
My Dear Sir:—

A considerable number of specimens of Herderite varying from one to one hundred dollars in value have been placed in my hands. If you have not the mineral in your cabinet I think for ten or fifteen dollars I could send to you a good representation of that mineral. I took the microlites which I had to Europe but I brought them all back again. If you wish larger crystals than those that I sent to you I have still nine large ones which are valued at fifteen dollars each.

Yours Truly,
Wm. E. Weston
