My dear George,

Your letter received yesterday reminds me that in writing on Friday I omitted to mention your fossil from Sandwich. It is no doubt a crustacean, and may be a Stomatopod or even a Decapod; in which case, unless it has been previously described and described, it may be of very great interest. The paper from London show it to be London

would be Henry Wood ward of the British Museum, and I could advise when you have an opportunity to show
it to him. If new,
he will no doubt
be willing to describe
it. Etheridge would know if it is new,
and perhaps could
attend to it himself.

I sent by mail
on Friday a review
of your paper as

Francis, and hope
you have received it.

I shall send a remittance letter next Friday &

Friday after. I hope you have enjoyed your holiday in Scotland and will be the better and stronger for it, and that you will be able to go to work with you and good wishes of success. Much will depend on your performance this winter

as to your having any further with the Survey people.

I should have said above that I sent your paper to Dana for Billings's Journal, and that he promises to insert

it, but not till February.
We are all well; and the children are pleased with the stamps as you sent,

I write to-day, having a few moments of time.
The others will write on Friday. Please say whether a letter mailed, like this on Sunday reaches much earlier than the Friday letter. Your loving father W. Adams
