

Dear Sir
 Member
 Society of Friends

My dear George,

The mail as usual is too late this week to enable us to answer any letter you may have sent. Please thank Etheridge for the Coccoliths. I shall make good use of them; but have not had time as yet to look at them. I think you are quite right to belong to the Linnæan Club if the fellows are respectable and there is no drinking about such clubs in England are too apt to have. You may require a better microscope than your old one and if necessary I have no objection to get you one; but perhaps you had better see what forms others have, as some are made now very cheaply, by Collins, Ladd and others.

Nature arrives quite regularly and I generally take time to glance at it within a day or two of its arrival. In the last no I saw a letter in form of some one at Liverpool who has swallowed all King and Amey's measure and details it for the public good. I have sent a note in reply, and have said to the editor

that if he pay he may send a proof to
you. If he does look over and see that there are no gross blunders, by substituting one word for another;

Enclose the second
of exchange — just was sent two weeks ago. If it was received and paid please destroy this.

Before you receive this the report will have begun again and I hope you will see that all your arrangements are such as to profit by it and to prepare for success at the coming fraternal. Hunt and I have sent to Dublin W. P. King and many.
I have sent an article to Silliman, a special case in case with some new facts which will attract Huxley and the rest in London; but I propose to send to London by note on Decoria. It is feared that it may appear with the other things that have been

of me to be published there.

We all send our sincere love, praying that God may bless you in all things and
grant you all health and prosperity of soul and body.

Ever your loving father

W Dawson
