Dear Sir,

Swell has at length got the Report out, and as our instructions had arrived & parliament is just rising, I thought it best to order him to send 100 copies to Mr Laird and 50 to Mr Ward at Dublin. The rest will remain here until instructions are received.

I have sent receipts
all of servants for the Lithography to the Ward as they needed the money. Jewell's bill will be sent in
as soon as I get it.

He has made the Crown rather too dark
for my taste, but the rest of the work so I think well done.

Ever yours affectionately

J. M. Dawson
