Boscombe
Hants

2 July 1892.

Dear Dr Dawson,

I write to say
how sorry we all were
to miss your kind
visit in London.

My doctor hurried
me down to this quiet retreat, (where

I have a little
house by the sea),
& I have already
nearly recovered my health, the weather
being lovely & the
air perfect.

All my party unite
in kind regards, &
I hope to have the pleasure of seeing you

when I am next
in town.

Yours very truly
Man Sancefote.

P.S. Please remember me to Sir George, if he has time to think of anything but the Election, & tell him

how sorry I was not to have been able to see him again
before I left London.
