My dear Doctor

I write acknowledging with partial success as yet to console you a little illness that took me in hand last June. In July I had to pain & leave London - the consequence is that I have piled up a mass Maccombs administrative paper - even the Societies fighting by of its polemical character.

Had I been well & in India I could have presented my several requests - but Mags & newspapers all agreed it being it was far too long for any space available.

Of course the question is one which is not understood by the British public - not only remark "that Behing Sea Seal - I thought they were all settled at Paris long ago."

and of course, as you know, one or two of our Naturalists - especially the Dool: Society - have long ago been got at with the idea the Pelagic is all that is evil & actually takes females to be.

I hope to be in London again shortly to crown the doctors - I may have or write some other opportunity to place the article. I only wish I had been well &

"in situ."

I am afraid this is all most unsatisfactory to you - I do not know when Macom may be but will write to him later on - In the meantime would you kindly send him the gist of this letter.
Hoping to see you again soon
Yours
George Baden-Powell
