RANKINE DAWSON, M.A.; M.D., C.M. (McGill University);
F.R.C.I.; M.R.C.S.E., L.R.C.P., Lond.

After taking his degree in 1882, Dr. DAWSON was engaged in professional work in Western Canada for two years, during a part of which time he was in medical charge of the men employed in constructing the Canadian Pacific R. R. in Manitoba. He then went to London, where a year or two was devoted to hospital work, and the qualifications, as above, acquired and registered. Subsequently four years were spent as surgeon in the P. & O. Company's service. After giving up this position, further time was given to hospital work in London, more especially in hospitals for the treatment of diseases of children and of the skin.

During the ten years referred to above, Dr. DAWSON has travelled extensively in America, has visited India, China and the Australian colonies, and has enjoyed exceptional opportunities of studying the diseases peculiar to these countries, as well as of familiarizing himself with medical practice and hospital management in them.
