

York Hotel
Albion
Monday morning Nov 26

My dearest Grandma,

We had quite decided to leave for Paris this morning but when it came to the very day to start we all thought that we would not be happy to leave without seeing you first. It will be of such a true pleasure to us all to see you now that we have really decided to remain we all feel much happier. Besides this Papa really has a very nasty Cold & we thought that it was risky to attempt crossing the Channel at this season. I am sure that you will be very glad, dear Grandma, to learn that we are still to be in London & I hope that your Ship will arrive early & that you will be here early for of course every day is of importance to us. ~~for~~ If you will telegraph immediately to us upon arriving I know that it wd please Papa very much - We are all looking forward to seeing you again & will have lots to talk about for we have met so many kind friends.

here & of course we want to hear the latest news about home. Of course you will come directly to us here -

Albemarle St. runs up from Piccadilly & is the next street to Bond Street on the Wide Park Side.

I have no more time to write now but we hope to see you very soon. You don't know what a pleasure it will be to us to see you again & it is to be hoped that wind & weather will bring you to us soon.

With best love from Eva.

P.S. Excuse haste & take the will for the dead. Mother wrote to you on Sunday when we still intended to leave but still sends it - Not of course you will understand that we are to be here to await your coming - will be very glad, Mrs. B. & P.

in London I hope that your
will be less early for of course every day is of importance to us - if you will telegraph immediately so upon arriving I know that it will please I hope very much - we are all looking forward to being you again I will have to take care for we have not so many kind friends
