Sept 4, 1893.

Dear Rankine,

Your panorama
of Stockholm, received
by mamma on Saty,
reminds us of your
new departure, which I hope will be interesting and enjoyable.
Stockholm is a fine
city, and it is a
great chance to get
a taste in Scandinavia.
I have often wished

With a little retiring and lowance about the college purses, we shall I
hope be able to live comfortably; but it must be my business, when we get settled, to curtail all unnecessary expenses and keep ourselves well within the limits of income, without encroaching on capital, This however Mamma and I are willing to do, to as
great an extent as possible, in favour of
your permanent settlement, & in aid

In such a thing - The
ferlogy is so interesting and I have several friends and correspondents there. In hope of reaching you, when we heard of you being about to leave, I sent the names of some of
them, and a general
note of introduction
which may be of use
to you & to your patient of the cases in Geological Museum, &c.

We are preparing to leave here on or about the 14th. The weather
being now somewhat
cold and broken.
We shall have for
the present by way of
economy, and to have facilities for getting out
and packing up our
belongings, to take up
our quarters in the old College house, where,
if you think of coming
out in autumn or early
winter, we shall still have a room for you

of William if he should unfortunately be thrown out of employment
 & the utility of Return. We are at present straining every
 nerve in his behalf,
 and hope we may
 succeed in averting any calamity to him and his family. Possibly your present engagement may enable you to
 dispense with further
 thoughts on my wife
 in the Chestnut Bank,

If so the money will be available in your interest or William's
whichever may most
need help. If I had been spared in health
another year, I could have done more for you
all, as I was striving down all personal expenses to the lowest point, but that terrible pneumonia upset all my calculations.
It was the will of God, and I know for the best, and perhaps when you were from the College I may have more chance to do a little at least in canvassing for my Dns. We are all well, and send many love to you.
Yours truly
M. Dawson
