 your friend Larn seems to me, to be doing very badly - he does not appear much give any thought to his profession - but devotes his energies to the club, & society - & has a dissipated air & that makes one fear for him - Such a pity, ^{with} ^{over} the endeavours & ambitions of men, as things of small that more people do not arrive at the Charente - state of arrival in regard to them - but after all the delay - is in the men who are not in the things seen - of your end like shown one by one, of the extreme price - that heard a whispering report that the news blasted out with Wassala on the train, & General Wij's case has nothing with the one
