

Dear Madeline, I have my ~~possession~~ possession W.O.'s black, silver locked booklet which he called his secret history of the L.H.H. & which he had me not to be published till 1989th century in 1989. Later O. wanted it destroyed for some reason, probably E-Y-D phobia, would not discuss it with me or let me see it, but kept it in his safe. She told me Harvey had got hold of it & had broken the lock! (who was lost at dinner time between Boston & Oxford, and the pretty girl H.C. didn't get a look at it after his death. Or you or Julie S. know that (there is that) know the answer? Thanks she if I don't ask her?

As literary executor I promised Sam to break W.O.'s tape seal, let me read it and make notes, and cut out anything that could possibly have annoyed GAO. It is now as Sam recorded it in 1928. The important "history", a gem of characterization, occupies only a few pp., most of the other matter was an annual summary up to 1916-1916, which I don't think H.C. made use of it needed to the "Life" is much fuller & more interesting than in 1989. I should like to write an introduction to the history now.

Please let us really truly see you in Sept. I would like to hope you & entourage keep reasonably cool & happy

Yours Ellen - ~~Kathy~~ Cagley

I would know a little girl of that name but never met her for with her.
