

To Dr. Flick from Dr. Jacobs.

Baltimore, <sup>04</sup>
March 22, 1922.

My dear Dr. Flick:

I have your letter of yesterday in which you tell me that Prof. Maragliano will not be able to come to this country on account of illness. I regret to hear this, not only for our own sakes but on account of the Phipps Institute, for I am sure we were all counting on seeing and hearing him.

I am glad to hear, however, that your luncheon stands and I shall do my best to be present, although I find that I may be a little late on account of the time of trains; if so, I beg that you will not wait for me, but will sit down and I will join you as soon as I get there. I think that I am right that your luncheon is to be at the University Club at half past twelve.

Very cordially yours,

Henry Barton Jacobs.
