

He certainly from time to time ^{felt impelled} felt impelled to leave ~~some~~ ^{an} autobiographical sketch. The impulse must have struck him once in Baltimore for a sheet of ~~the~~ paper "To my brothers and my sisters whose constant aid has made my life a happy one in the hope that these may"

- I De profundis Herculidis
- II Childhood
- III Youth
- IV Maiden
- V The outcast in life - the fair mind & the fair body
- VI The war of life - habits
- VII Fatherhood
- VIII Motherhood
- IX Work
- X Worry
- XI Self-education
- XII Preservation of Health
- XIII Some adventures of ill health
- XIV News
- XV The mystery of pain
- XVI The way to Bliss
- XVII Nemesis
- XVIII "In the hour of death -"

until ^{well} the life of man

This has been preserved in W.O. but it is the red volume ^{bound} ~~bound~~ in which occur the following extraordinary notes all in pencil except the first part down which I have copied (p. 2) which is in ink opposite to the pencil notes of down copied by myself.

I think it must have been done on his sick bed for it is very shaky ^{in pencil} and on the flyleaf is written "Not worth doing anything with W.O."

He must have had the book with him for there is a letter inscribed Oct 6 '19 from his mother relative to the notes.