Barwell,

St.

on Spadina Ave., near Green

Mrs. Barwell says for a year they had an office together - was to collect for the show & would never do. - never collected any fees, was used to conduct business for her

The Standard - about Barwell, said never knew what it was for the purpose a theatrical, and was by. got born 1870 like Barwell, "Peter it's a fine job a low"

Pipery Stone & Colly Cooper, Grocery, married with five children and.

Her two, were never alone - very gay together.

No one seems to know where W.O. slept, but he was most of the time at Barwell's house - was a member of the household - & B. being lost his only son behaved toward W.O. as tho he was another.

Barwell's Acres of horses on St. John St., ground down - whole square burned down in fact - before W.O. came - John Barwell built the house called "The Hermitage" on Dennison square where he & his two had "all their rabbits, mice, rats and "neighbors pets" to the scandal of the community
