Dear Dr. Jacobi:-

Thank you so much for the volumes, which I have only had time to look over hurriedly last evening. I think it is a pity you did not publish them. Your modesty in the matter makes me blush a bit as I am just publishing a little volume of addresses, a copy of which you will get within a few weeks. If you had the volumes electrotyped, it would be well worth while issuing an edition for the profession.

But it would be most interesting if you extended the story of your life, and in the form of a separate autobiography. Please give your daughter my kindest regards, and thank her, too, very much for the volumes.

Sincerely yours,

Wm. Osler.
