

All this last month wrote notes ^{my day} for Jada - would not let P.R.O. see it. On day of death the nurse told Lady O. ✓

To take them away is probably very valuable.

Used to make the notes while Lady O. was getting over in the then,

Sybil books. Sybil is ^{in bed} thinking about these things all the time.

Advantage of a slow rather than an abrupt end,
 Helmut about the case & his consultants in a detached way, as though it were not himself. Lady O.

Distribution of Special Books to Libraries.
(written in pen on a pad)

- 1) To the British Museum in appreciation of much valuable help and of my friendship with many members of the Staff, particularly my dear friend Alfred W. Pollard.
The 1476 unique copy of Rhazes, should it have come in [time if not] they may take the ~~MS~~ [never filled in].
- 2) To Bodley
 - 1) the illustrated 1240 Arabic Dioscorides, which will comfort the heart of Dr. Cowley, one of - I believe - the three x illustrated MSS. of this Author in Arabic.
 - 2) The Sir John Harringtons own MS. - of the school of Salerno, his well known translation.
 - 3) Andrew Boode, whom I loved and to whom full justice has never been done in the profession - his MS. of the Perigrination of England.
- 3) To the Library of the Royal College of Physicians,
 - 1st The Rules - Regulations of the Gloucestershire xxi Medical Society 1785-93 in the handwriting chiefly of Edward Jenner
 - 2) The Theodore de Mayerne case book - which will rejoice the heart of the President (Sir Norman). These are really the only important items in my library which should not go out of xx the Country.
- 4) To the Faculté de Medicine de Paris,
Paré's Anatomie Universelle 1553 of which no copy exists in the B.M. or in their Library and only two or three other copies known.
- 5) Royal Society of Medicine,
Withering's letters, papers and diplomas 1762-1793. And I hope that some member of the Historical Section will edit them carefully.
- 6) To, the University of Leyden,
Boerhaave's quadrant presented to him with the table of latitude and longitude when he moved into his country house (Paelquist) with a gentle reminder that perhaps they scarcely deserve to have back the treasure which I bought for --- gulde in Leyden.
- 7) Bibliotheca Lancesiana Rome
The MS. letter book of Baglivi, the distinguished Roman Clinician with 126 letters from his scientific friends, among them Malpighi, Redi - etc and the drafts of his replies - no hurry about the return of this which I bought in Rome at auction for 500 x lira. Before it returns someone should work up the letters.
- 8) To the Surgeons General's Library in Washington - so difficult to give anything to a collection so rich but I thought that perhaps the MS. of my farewell address - the fixed period, which caused a xi a little excitement, would find best its resting place in a library to which I owe so much and some of whose members - Billings, Fletcher, and Garrison have been my intimate friends. It is the typewritten copy as I read it and I have put a note, the printing of which might be deferred a few years.

9) To the College of Physicians of Phila - the Montpellier MS. Textbook 1373.

W.O.

N.B. All these items should appear in my catalogue and the statement where they now are.

Literary Remains.

(a) As already arranged Tom McCrae edits with me the next edition and half profits would come to you. Subsequently he takes over ~~xx~~ the book as his own.

(b) Billy Francis and Archie Malloch can act as my literary executors in other matters. I hold the copyright of Aequanimitas of which H.K. Lewis bought the remainder of the last printing - Constable ~~xix~~ might take it - The Oxford Press has the copyright of the Alabama Student and a good many copies remain - I had an idea later to get out a 2nd series of Essays and Addresses but after the average man's death interest in his writings falls off.

(c) There are many scraps of MSS. and unfinished articles and papers which are not worth anyone editing - in fact I would prefer them to be left alone in the Library. Some deliver in the past - two hundred years hence will be interested to see the material on which a 19-20 century doctor worked!

(d) A new edition of Counsels and Ideals would be useful. If the Press did not care to risk it - Camac might get Hoerber to do it.
