13, NORHAM GARDENS,
OXFORD.

Dearest Mabel,

Still in bed and coughing! but no fever and general condition good, so that Father Time should put me to rights. I am very happy in bed. The nurse is excellent - & my only worry is about poor Grace, who has a duce of a time heading off people & struggling with my secretary about unfinished - long promised papers &c. I am able to work a little at my catalogue. I should be furious if I did not see dear Reverses library in good order and my own catalogue ready for the printers before my call comes - but this seems greedy after the good innings I have been given. You & your darlings look at me from a table near at hand
Have just finished Butlers(Samuel) Biography - not very pleasant He was an odd fish but a genius. I should think uncle Ned would like his "Note Book"
Grace sends love. Blessings on you all

Yours affectionately
