My dear O.

So sorry for your b. t. m. You must take a good rest in Hamilton. Stay a few days with them at 126 Milton Ave. May I hear does not wish now to go to England, at least not with G. G. F. She is afraid I think of him and of his bibulosity. She would be happy with her relatives over there. I shall send you C. P. of Ch. when out & T's letter when I find it. I have settled at work - after a long spree. Get well soon.

Yours,
W. Osler.

Cerebral Palsy of Children

On October 2nd the writer Ogden was been ill. "So sorry for your b. t. m. You must take a good rest at Hamilton I shall send you C. P. of Ch. when out & T's letter when I find it. I have settled at work - after a long spree. Get well soon"

By this time the Cerebral Palsy of Children could be identified by its initials and W. Osler the lecturer had already appeared during the summer they were being raised in course form back in Philadelphia on English and American relations. But he was not impressed in these lectures to the exclusion of other. Dr Osler was at this time ^{then} was developed to a high degree the ability for power of relaxing his mind by merely studying to another topic and throughout his whole years there had been no let up in his incessant Editorials to help out the News Board, in his papers or diverse medical papers and in his signed notes to the Canada Medical and Surgical Journal.

My dear O. The papers were full of it. I have sent a Bulletin to the Medical and Surgical
