Dear Dr. Billings:-

I was very sorry not to see you on Monday night. I was at the Hospital in the evening, but only heard of you after your departure.

I was anxious to talk to you about our mutual friend H. I believe it is absolutely necessary that he should get something to do. He is such a proud, reticent fellow that he would not think of asking any of us to bestir ourselves in his favor. He would be able I should think, to do library work or literary work in connection with some publishing firm. I dare say you have had him in mind already.

Sincerely yours,

Wm. Osler.
