

CU 84.7/87.10 45

He was probably more exact historian than life in Philadelphia. He also missed more than this [bottom] were the College of Physicians and its original library. In Bellman's list [below] the Library Society before whom he had given his "Prints & Pictures" catalogue in 1859, took the name [bottom] the first professor in a did not escape the Philippine Philadelphia. It was a prominent body which preserved within these a furthermore large volume of manuscripts/vintage, housed in the basement of the Maryland Historical Society. The repository and books on respective and other subjects which became 1859 turned into a separate dosage in almost wholly alternative position instant and activity. In this year, 1852, the ~~new~~ reorganized to go on the Library Committee as a committee to care in the ~~old~~ new ~~for the most important~~ for the most important ~~books~~ books during whose time the "Faculty" ~~made~~ ^{was} many volumes to sell and sellin' books are the Library seen from via Senate ~~desire~~ desire to reduce to one of nearly 1500 volumes by 1905.
See an element in this Renaissance ~~the succeeded~~ in following turned library appointed Anne Maria C. Meyer who had given the own account ^{the following year} to other elite public services, taking the secreta in the plan tree in the affection to the poor library theory. Sister antennae government interest with the expatriate for Europe

Other references on the Library, to the Maryland & the Virginia Societies of the Slave Maryland. John Hopkins Bulletin. July 1919.

Calm ~~intensity~~ in library was accumulation and the on with the same friends, the united one make it was more ~~books~~ books. Interspersed lost and as might seem the taking at McGill, the new Library and Books in Philadelphia, the John Hopkins Hospital, the Maryland Faculty, and finally the Bostonian as well as Boston in which very sincerely came interested them in contact the important hospital. Other to the founders, one intended to find it by his support and own longer, though his personal location, the Museum very assured a frank Latin and a few at the openings to members of the Boston Museum showing the very models was unfortunate:

Strikes from Express, etc., before publication date 6/3

"J. Burns & Son"

Just as fifty-two times. As was the case in Montreal, it was unusual that he did not have some interesting specimen to show, some new technical method to demonstrate, or some subject of interest to present in relation to comparative pathology, for here again, as in Montreal, though the opportunity was less great since the Veterinary Department had only just been established ~~to take every advantage of every favorable occasion to pursue his studies~~ established, to make any comparative study of diseases in the lower animals.

~~in Philadelphia~~

~~the University~~

~~and the following year he began to give lectures on comparative pathology, which were well received by the students, and he was soon offered a position as assistant to the professor of zoology, Dr. J. F. Miller, who was also a member of the faculty.~~

~~He soon became a favorite with the students, and was soon offered a position as assistant to the professor of zoology, Dr. J. F. Miller, who was also a member of the faculty.~~

~~He soon became a favorite with the students, and was soon offered a position as assistant to the professor of zoology, Dr. J. F. Miller, who was also a member of the faculty.~~

~~He soon became a favorite with the students, and was soon offered a position as assistant to the professor of zoology, Dr. J. F. Miller, who was also a member of the faculty.~~

~~He soon became a favorite with the students, and was soon offered a position as assistant to the professor of zoology, Dr. J. F. Miller, who was also a member of the faculty.~~

~~He soon became a favorite with the students, and was soon offered a position as assistant to the professor of zoology, Dr. J. F. Miller, who was also a member of the faculty.~~

~~He soon became a favorite with the students, and was soon offered a position as assistant to the professor of zoology, Dr. J. F. Miller, who was also a member of the faculty.~~

~~He soon became a favorite with the students, and was soon offered a position as assistant to the professor of zoology, Dr. J. F. Miller, who was also a member of the faculty.~~

~~He soon became a favorite with the students, and was soon offered a position as assistant to the professor of zoology, Dr. J. F. Miller, who was also a member of the faculty.~~