

June-July
1900 Oct 51

a drinking bowl', was nevertheless knocking about the Infirmary. They subsequently went to a charming place on the Thames, namely ~~Wargrave, with the~~

Dwyford at the 'George and Dragon'

where the Francis nieces and where Revere had his first taste and fill of boating. June means - unless somehow was found with there to prepare a promised address.

The name of Jonathan Hutchinson ~~had~~ ^{was} always ~~been~~ made familiar to Osler's students. "When anything turns up which is anomalous or peculiar, anything upon which the text-books are silent and the systems and cyclopaedias are dumb, I tell my students to turn to the volumes of Mr. Hutchinson's 'Archives of Surgery', as if it is not mentioned in them we surely have something very much out of the common." Though of an older generation, though a surgeon, in medicine ~~of his~~ ^{by the name} of the conservative surgeons, Hutchinson was a man and though something of a non-conformist in medicine, Osler's appreciation of Osler's own heart in humanity - an in his all-roundness - "the only great generalized specialist the profession has produced" - a man whose of Hutchinson's rare qualities which bore 'a strong likeness to those of the immortal Hunter' a man to it might order who prefers to die plain John or die and his devotion to him was always marked.

(he wrote)

also 'John Hunter Surgeon' a century before.

On July 4th there was a gathering of some thousand medical men at the inauguration of a museum to be named after Hutchinson at the 'Medical Graduates' College & Polyclinic' in London, which owed its erection largely to Hutchinson before this graduate school was established(?), who for years had

One objection to the coming year is indicated by a letter to Soflens in which he ~~asks for~~ ^{says send me} any memoranda of corrections or suggestions you may have for a new edition of my rade-mecum. But the text book revision has been crowded in among other things. Thus on

Am. Phys. Soc. mem.
Baltimore.

May 7-9

Dr. Wright's address is 1010 F Street
N.W. D.C. 20004
Case number is 1010 F Street
N.W. D.C. 20004
The address is 1010 F Street
N.W. D.C. 20004