Dear Brown:

I should not think it would be worth while for the poor fellow to make any change in location. I suppose the condition is pretty hopeless. Find out about his financial condition, please, and make any arrangements about a suitable boarding-house, and if he has come to the end of his finances let the bills be sent to me, please. I shall feel much obliged if you would keep an eye on him and see that he has everything that is necessary.

Glad to hear that you are going off to California for a trip. It will do you good.

Sincerely yours,

W^m Osler.
