Dear Chadwick:-

I am very anxious to get another Holmes book-plate for a friend of mine in England. You sent me two or three last year in books which came from Holmes' library, and I gave them all away but one, which I have in front of a very handsomely bound copy of the puerperal fever essay. Perhaps there is a duplicate copy of that in the library, either a '43 or a '55 edition. It is for my old friend, MacAlister, of Cambridge, who is a devoted admirer of Holmes, and who sent me recently the enclosed translation of one of Holmes' poems.

I found Bigelow's account of the old portrait. It is most delightful.

I suppose I have to thank you for the Lloyd picture, which came some time ago.

Is it not high time you came down here?

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) W. Osler
