

(To Lt. Col. Leonard Rogers, I.M.S.)

(Typewritten)

13, Norham Gardens, Oxford.
March 19, 1907.

Dear Rogers:

I was very much disappointed that I could not be at your Milroy lectures; but on the fixed days I had important meetings or else evening engagements which I could not put off. Your lectures have been most interesting and valuable. I am so glad that you are going to publish a work on the fevers of India. I shall be very glad to have a chat with you about it. You must come and see us before long. I have just moved into my house and we are not yet properly settled.

With kind regards,

Sincerely yours,

W^m Osler.

*This refers to my lectures on Kala-azar at the Royal College of Physicians of London in 1907 published in an enlarged form in my Fevers in the Tropics: L.R.