

TO: Sir John MacAlister.

Letter typewritten.

13, Norham Gardens,
Oxford.

May 8th. 1908.

Dear MacAlister,

I told Herbert, who was an old fellow student of mine at Montreal, that he was not to use ~~any~~ letter of mine in an advertisement. I suppose he could not resist the temptation. I have written to the British Medical Journal to have my name removed. I have seen nothing of Herbert for many years. He was a Fellow of the Medical Chirurgical and a rather shady one I am afraid, but I know very little about him at present. Of course, I knew he was badly mixed up in that French case.

Sincerely yours,

Wm. Osler.