Dear Adami,

The book has not yet come, but meanwhile thank you so much. It is a great honour to be sandwiched between the two most distinguished of Western Pathologists. I am sure Vo. ii will be quite as successful as its predecessor, of which I hear all sorts of good things. The best men here are using it exclusively. Boycott is a first-rate fellow, but I do not believe he could be dislocated. For what position would you desire him? I know him fairly well and would be very glad indeed to sound him.

I was very disappointed to hear the other day that Shipley had missed the Professorship, it is too bad, he certainly has worked hard for the Cambridge School.

Have a chat with Mills before long; should he not get into first-class condition it would be well in the interests of the school to get him on the Carnegie Pension. I doubt if there is enough in it for him to live on, but it would be well worth while, and only right that the governors should supplement.

Love to all at home.

Sincerely yours,

Wm. Osler.
