Dear Shepherd,

I am glad to hear that the Carnegie Trustees have agreed to pension Mills. It will be a great help to have a young and energetic fellow in charge of that important department. I hope the Governors may see their way to supplementing the Carnegie pension. Mills has not been able to save anything, and he ought to have at least 2000 dollars a year, poor chap, I do not believe it will be for very long either, as in spite of his general appearance, I think there is still infection of the bladder.

It was a relief to hear this week of Arthur Brown's death; poor fellow! what a terrible tragedy it has been for him, and especially hard lines for a man who has been so devoted to the welfare of others.

Love to the girls.

Sincerely yours,

W^m Osler
