Dear Libman:

I am not going out this autumn. My Yale lectures have been postponed until next year. I am very sorry, as I had hoped to have a few days in New York and see you all, and the progress you are making. I am very interested to hear what you say about the endocarditis cases. What a lot of interest in the subject you have stirred up! Austrian from the Johns Hopkins was here the other day, and says they are finding a great many of your cases.

I have just got a new edition of my Text-book completed, of which you will have a copy in the course of a few weeks. There are a great many sins of omission, but it is awfully difficult to put new wine into the old bottle.

With kindest regards,

Sincerely yours,
