No. 107
(Letter to Dr. C.N.B. Camac)
(typewritten)

29th Jan. 1913

From the Regius Professor of Medicine, Oxford.

Dear Camac,

It was very nice to get your letter this morning, and last evening the report on the Ottawa typhoid, which is most interesting.

I am so glad to hear that Mrs. Camac is better. What a sad time she has had! I shall get out in time for the meeting on the 16th of April, and a day or two before that you may expect a telephone call, and I shall of course run round and see you at once. Give my love to the girls and say that I am sorry I have had to stop all business relations with their firm, because of the sand in the sugar. I hope the opening of the new millinery department will be ready by the time I get out.

Revere is very well. He has left Winchester this term to have a year's tutoring in Latin and Greek, in which he is weak, for his entrance examination.

With love to you all,

Sincerely yours,

W.O.
