

(Letter to London Times, Aug. 14, 1913, p. 4,b).

MODERN CLINQUES.

Athenaeum Club, Aug. 13.

To the Editor of the Times.

2

Sir: - Sir Henry Morris' opinion carries the weight of his distinguished position and long experience as a teacher, but I am afraid he does not realize the changed and changing conditions - certainly in medicine - or he would not speak of the head of a modern clinique as a "Jack-of-all-trades". ~~and~~ Let him visit Krehl at Heidelberg, Kraus or His at Berlin, von Müller at Munich, or, should he prefer a surgical clinique, that of the Mayo Brothers at Rochester, Minn., and he will understand what organization under a "Jack-of-all-trades" means. In the rearrangements of London University it is very important to have the active cooperation of such men as Sir Henry Morris; and of this I am sure - that a visit of a week or two to any one of the cliniques I have mentioned would make of him a strong convert to the scheme suggested by the Royal Commission, so far as the hospital work is concerned.

Yours, &c.,

William Osler.

*Regarding full time hours of Morris' letter in Times
7 Aug 13th*