Dear Campbell:

I do trust that all anxiety is now over. What a sad time the poor dear must have had, and you must have been wild with apprehension. I dare say now she will make a rapid recovery. Thanks for your cables. We have been so worried. I know how risky these pneumonia infections are, - or was it entirely a post appendicular affair. You must have found it very hard to do your work with such a load at your heart.

I saw J. and Maggie the other day. They are at Grosvenor Square. Settling everything. Marjorie must have been a comfort and Tom.

Yours affec.

Doc O.

I hope the baby is thriving.
