

Oxford, 12 May 1914.

Dear Jacobs:-

I was just on the point of writing you, as I have had letters from Thayer and Welch - both very enthusiastic. Welch writes as if there was no fear of Thayer leaving. I suppose the Trustees will make any reasonable arrangements to keep him. Janeway is in every way a first-class fellow, and he is young and enthusiastic and full of ferment. It will make the medical side uncommonly strong.

Glad to hear that Mrs. Jacobs is better. I hope we shall see you on the way back.

Sincerely yours,

Wm. Osler.
