My dear Oden,
Many thanks for the beautiful copy of Withering's Botany, which arrived two days ago. It is beautifully bound in sage green and differs greatly from the modern ^{botanical} textbook in the character of the information it in-parts. Witness these lines.

"The Longfellow's leaves with cautious gear
Another proof of favoring Heaven
Will happily display;
The rapid pulse I can abate
The hectic flush can moderate
And, blent by Him whose will is fate,
May give a lengthened day."

Please do not use this until I have given my paper an withering to the historical section.

With many thanks

Yours very truly
