

Oxford.

20, February, 1915.

Dear J. William,

I am delighted to hear that you are coming over in the summer. I hope to be over in France myself to stay for a little while with the McGill Contingent and see them get settled.

What a lot of splendid work you have done! I see your reprint on all the station bookstalls. I have asked that the translations be sent to you at once. I have not seen them yet, but it is quite evident that the booklet has caught on, and your work has been very warmly appreciated. Send over the new edition, as if there is much extra, I daresay the Publicity Committee would like to take it over.

You and Mrs. White come directly to us on your way to Paris.

Ever yours,

W^m Osler

This was the day Revue of Bol. Emmons published their book at Mar. 19