

From Dr. Malloch's Journal
Sunday, March 26, 1916.

Cases at Infirmary. "Success in life" W. O. says, "is to get control of one's vasomotors." Revere and I walked to Marston Ferry and watched and listened to the soaring larks - a lovely day. Revere wishes to study English literature at Ch.Ch. after the war. He knows a lot about the poets and bibliography now. Read an account of Fra P. Paoli Sarpi, and W. O. told me that some have considered that he discovered the circulation.
