

From Dr. Malloch's Journal.

Friday, Dec. 22, 1916.

W.O. only remembers distinctly two meals in his life. Drove a newly arrived clergyman (who tried to save W.O.'s soul en route from Dundas to Waterdown, and stopped at a country hotel "Food for man and beast", and had green ham and four fried eggs. The other was one of the 'Club' dinners at Montreal in rooms, and old Cook and Mrs. Cook prepared pile of oysters, pail, clean towel, brown bread and butter, and each had a bottle of beer and a bottle of stout. It was Buller's turn, and Cook and his wife kept house for them.
