

(To Dr. A. J. Jex-Blake, England)

(Handwriting)

13 Norham Gardens, Oxford,
12.IX.17 (Sept. 12, 1917)

Dear Jex-Blake

It is a hard blow but to be taken bravely. Others have had to suffer more. He had developed into a fine lad, with keen interests in all the brighter & better things in life. Some day when you are in Oxford I would like to show you his books. It is a consolation to know that his great friend Harvey Cushing was with him at the end. Lady Osler joins me in grateful thanks for your kind sympathy

Sincerely yours,

W^m Osler
