

(Letter to Howard A. Kelly) typewritten)

24th February, 1919.

From the Regius Professor of Medicine, Oxford.

13, Norham Gardens,

Dear Kelly,

I was afraid there was likely to be trouble, but I am glad you have got matters adjusted. I should have been very sorry to have had you and Cullen treated roughly after all the service you have rendered to the School and to the country. Just think what you have done since that day I stole you from Philadelphia! What a tough-fibred old quartette we have proved to be! I don't see how you have lasted, having driven the machine much harder than any one of us.

So glad you have got Boulton back; we were delighted with Howard - do give him my love. Things here are progressing; the Colleges are filling up, but there is naturally much unrest.

Love to you all from us both

Sincerely yours,

WM. OSLER
