REGIMEN CONTRA PESTI LERIAM FIUE EPIDIMIAM

W. O.'s Letter.

(Typewritten)

From the Regius Professor of Medicine, Oxford.

29. vii. 19.

Dear brother Colophonist,

You will be interested to know how your President survived his admission into the ranks of the "last lappers". From your standpoint the birthday was a great success. The anniversary volumes with articles from 150 contributors are themselves a direct encouragement to bibliography. As for the Regimen sanitatis, which you and others so kindly sent, please accept my hearty thanks for such a gem—both author and printer have already stimulated my interest, which is the test of the value of any incunabulum. An untouched 1859 Omar inscribed by Prof. Max Müller with the compliments of the translator was a pleasant surprise on the breakfast table. A present of the snuff box of our lamented friend Bannister, whose Vatican mixture had stimulated the pineal gland of all the chief continental bibliographers, has induced your President to take up a habit of such undoubted progeric value.

That a well ordered 70th birthday may have all the advantages of the final exitus is shown by the July number of the Johns Hopkins Hospital Bulletin, which leaves nothing to be said. The end of the number brought the thrill of the day, when I saw revealed the utter shamelessness of my life—and the true reason of our secretary's attachment to me! a bibliography of my writings extending to 740 articles!

An illuminated address from the staff at Bodley, (not to have worshipped at whose shrine I count the day lost) the promise of medico-literary anthology in my honour, with greetings from scores of dear friends helped to complete a very happy birthday.

Sincerely yours,

W. Osler.

NOTES FROM BOOKS

REGIMEN CONTRA PESTILENTIAM SIUE EPIDEMIAM

Reverendissimi domini Caminti Episcopi Arusiensis v. Requiescens sanitate v.
No date. M. Antoine Denidel
(Script) Slip inserted in book.

1.
From Ph. Renouard: Imprimeurs parisiens, Par, 1898, p.94:

Denidel ou Denydel (Antoine), parisien, maitre ès arts, libr. impr, exerce de 1495-1501.

"Demourant au mort Saint Hilaire, aupres du College de Coqueret a lenseigne de la Chaire; ir intersignio Cathedrae"

En 1495 Denidel fait suivre son adresse de ce distque:

Defecans Nisu Delictum Denidel extat
Syllaba notificat haec tria dicta triplex

En 1489 et 1500 associe avec Robert de Gourmont il signe:

"Prope collegium de Coqueret in intersignio Cornu Cerir", a la Corne-de-Cerf, rue du Mort Saint Hilaire.

En 1501: "Antonius de Nidel, in Artibras Maginster non curs Parisiensis, in monte Sancti Hilarii, prima concurrente casa, miro caractere exarairt"

Silvestre, No. 316, donne sa marque représentant saint Nicolas et sainte Catherine; il en eut un autre, moins connue, faisant rebus sur son nom; la Croix, les instruments de la Passion, le denier de la trahison de Judas et le coq qui chante.
Deni d'elle (de la Croix)

Silvestre gives Denidel's dates of work as 1497-1501
~~Graesse ii. 39~~
~~Brunet iii. 642.~~

2) (Lypewitten)
Camintus: Regimen contra Pestilentiam.

Mr. Duff has seen this, and considers the date of printing to be later than that given (viz. 1492) and pretty certainly after 1500.

Renouard: 'Les Imprimeurs Parisiens', gives Denidel's dates as 1495-1501. Renouard is, according to Mr. Duff the best book on the subject of the early printers of Paris. I will copy the short note which he gives on Denidel from the Bodley copy.
