

Seige of Port Arthur

Showing one of the 11 inch bars.

---

The Fong-koang-Shan Hills.

Japanese Bombardment of the Fort Arthur position, showing location shells upon the Fort Hills in the distance.

A typical camp some close to front lines - steep slope of hill toward the soldiers' barracks.

General Hagi & his staff in Port Arthur
The Army marching past.

---

---

The daily complement of wounds for 10 days.

General Hagi (2nd figure) arriving at Shuishi Village to meet General Steere

---

---

One of the trenches in front of the N. W. Fort.

During the time negotiations for murder were in progress the Japanese + Russian heralds walked about the meeting place with their arms about each other. — Comms yesterday — friends to-day.

Japanese soldiers erecting permanent shelters.

Russian soldiers marching out of Fort Arthur as prisoners of war.

The Fong-hong - Shan Hills with the Canton in the background.

The Field Hospital Camp of the 9th Division of Japanese Infantry among Feng-huang-shan Hills with Fort Arthur for bridge in the background.

The interior of the captured Wahlburg fort.

---

The Press Census explaining a fight which is in progress.

Japanese War Labels

Foreign Military Attacks looking at a fight from the crest of Feng-huang-shan.

A section of the N. American Fort immediately after it was blown up by dynamite & captured.

Correspondents watching a bombardment from the top of Feng-hoang-shan.

The Main trenchline leading to the Forth. Geekwan Fort.

a charge of the Japanese Infants

---

The living quarters of the Colonel in command of the regiment which did the heaviest fighting in the great of the Gettysburg fight.

Nothing between Stearns + Mayo.
General Stearns's charges which he offers to General Mayo.

Japanese soldiers moving on of the 11 inch howitzers

General Starnes returning to Fort Arthur after his interview with General Ross at Shumaki Village.

---

The Regimental Order at work.

A hot day on the top of Feng-hoang-shan.

Summer Camp of Foreign War Correspondents with Jap. Army.

---

Printer quarters of the Foreign War Correspondent with the Japanese Army.

Acc. No

