Dear Lord Noel-Buxton

I am sending you an advance copy of a book which is being published in the middle of April. Representing the research and views of more than one person, it has been written anonymously. It is an attempt to point a way to a policy of hope looking beyond the war and offering something not merely negative but positive for the coming generation to fight and work for. My own belief is that unless something of the kind is offered to those who have still got their life before them, the war, however it ends, will be followed by a terrible reckoning of suffering, disillusion and bitterness.

I hope you will be interested and, if you can, help. If you would like to know more I can send you more detailed and technical documents.

*Yours sincerely
Cecil Bryant*
