Dear Noel-Buxton,

I enclose on another sheet a short memorandum sketching out the plan I had in mind. If you approved we might then ^{approach} propose to Cardinal Hinsley ^{and} to ask leave to lay before him a scheme for uniting Christian sentiment in support of the authority of Christ as King. I am sure that you would be a very suitable person to go with me, as obviously it is desirable that both conservatives and progressives should approach him, showing that there is no party limitation to what is felt.

I am,

Yours very sincerely,

Hugh Cecil

THE LODGE,
ETON COLLEGE,
WINDSOR.

5th May, 1938.

My dear Noel Buxton

It is quite essential that you should sign the document we send to the Cardinal and that you should come with me if he is willing to give us an interview. There is all the difference in the world between one person coming and two.

I will insert a third provisional resolution relating to peace, of which I will enclose a copy with this letter.

I am,

Yours very sincerely,

Hugh Cecil

P.S. Please give me leave to affix your signature to the document I send to the Cardinal. It will be as you read it, plus the enclosed resolution.
